THE LITTLE DEVIL

I'VE BEEN ALL OVER THE WORLD AND UNDER THE SEA! BUT I WONDER WHAT'S WAY, WAY UP BEYOND THE CLOUDS!

WELL, THERE'S JUST ONE WAY TO FIND OUT AND THAT'S TO KEEP GOING UP TILL I COME OUT SOMEWHERE!

GOSH... THERE IS ANOTHER LAND! WHERE THE BLUE SKY ENDS AND THE PINK ONE BEGINS!

THERE'S ONE OF THE PEOPLE! I'LL ASK HIM WHAT THE NAME OF THIS PLACE IS!

PARDON ME, SKINNY... BUT COULD YOU... OW!

THE FRIENDLY DRAGON

Dexter was a dragon . . . a baby dragon, to be exact. But despite his tender years, Dexter had all the standard dragon equipment. He had a long, scaly body, a sinuous, whip-like tail, a flat, pointed head and a forked tongue. He even knew how to breathe fire, the way dragons are supposed to do. The only problem with Dexter was that he didn't LIKE doing the things dragons are supposed to do! He didn't LIKE breathing fire! He didn't LIKE roaring ferociously! He just plain didn't like scaring people half out of their wits!

His mother and father argued with him by the hour. "But, Dexter," they'd plead, "you're a DRAGON! And dragons are SUPPOSED to frighten people! That's our job!"

"I don't believe it!" Dexter would argue stubbornly. "I think the good Lord meant us all to be friendly and love one another, and that's what I want to do!"

"But who loves a dragon?" his parents would scoff. "Everyone's afraid of us!"

And that remark always made Dexter very sad. Because it was true. Everyone WAS afraid of him, just because he was a dragon. People never even gave him a chance to be friendly. When they saw him coming, they took to their heels and ran the other way! But Dexter always hoped, deep down in his heart, that someday, somewhere, somehow, he'd find a friend.

And so it came to pass that one day there was great and terrible excitement in the town where Dexter lived. It seems the princess, the king's only daughter, had wandered into the forest and gotten lost! Searching parties were organized all over the town. The king offered a reward to anyone who would find and save his child. People scurried to and fro in an agony of excitement. But nobody found the princess.

Except Dexter. He was taking his customary stroll that day, deep in the heart of the forest, when suddenly he came upon a golden-haired young lady, huddled on the ground and weeping bitter tears. At the sight of him, she jumped to her feet, her face pale with terror. "Oh, don't eat me!" she begged. "Please!"

"Eat you!" echoed Dexter in astonishment. "Of course I won't eat you! What a silly idea! I'd like to HELP you if I can. Will you let me?"

The princess was stunned at the friendliness of the young dragon, but she quickly dried her tears and told him who she was and how she had gotten lost. And Dexter, kindly soul that he was, soothed her and calmed her, and then led her out of the forest to safety. But at the edge of town, he stopped. "I'd better leave you here," he explained. "I'm not wanted in town . . ."

"Not wanted!" the princess echoed. "You're my friend, and you're coming straight to the palace with me!" And so it was. Side by side, they walked right through the heart of town. For Dexter had truly found a FRIEND at last!

A tale of TV

"Come on, Tommy, it's time to go to bed!" called Mrs. Haines.

"Five more minutes, Mom!" promised Tommy, without taking his eyes off the television screen. He'd been sitting there, in front of the TV set, for the past hour and a half, as if he were cemented to the chair. He'd watched two puppet shows, a cowboy drama, a quiz program, and now he was watching a science fiction story of spacemen and spaceships that had him enthralled. No question about it! The most exciting television programs of all were these space dramas! To fly around up there among the stars, to zoom from planet to planet, to explore strange new worlds of myth and mystery . . . THAT was a small boy's dream come true!

"Golly!" whispered Tommy, half to himself. "What I wouldn't give to be INSIDE that screen, LIVING that story my very own self . . ."

Whoosh! As he spoke, Tommy suddenly felt a swift current of cold air beneath him. It swept him bodily off the chair, up, up, and across the floor . . . RIGHT THROUGH THE TV SCREEN! And it didn't hurt a bit! It was as though the screen were made of the softest cotton, and Tommy just slid right through it!

He gasped, blinked, and rubbed his eyes. Then he blinked again. But it was true! He was inside a genuine spaceship . . . exactly the kind of ship he'd seen on the television show he'd been watching! Every knob, every dial was the same! And though the course of the ship was steady, he could tell they were zooming through interstellar space at thousands of miles an hour!

Trembling with excitement, Tommy made his way forward to the pilot's cabin. He didn't quite know what to expect as he pushed the door open, but he certainly wasn't prepared for the sight that met his eyes. The cabin was empty! THERE WAS NO ONE ON THE SHIP BUT TOMMY HIMSELF!

Now, for the first time, he began to feel frightened. After all, what did he know of piloting a spaceship? Nervously, he peeked through the window, and what he saw made his blood run cold. A great, dark body of what looked like land loomed directly ahead, and the ship was heading straight for it! A planet! That's what it had to be! And he was going to crash right into it! Frantically, Tommy seized the controls, trying desperately to remember how he had seen these things operated on TV. But the maze of wheels and dials overwhelmed him! He didn't know which to turn first! "Help!" he yelled aloud, although there was no one there to hear him. "Someone . . . anyone . . . help!"

"Tommy, Tommy, wake up! I knew it was way past your bedtime! And sure enough, you fell asleep right in front of the television set!" His mother's voice was the sweetest music Tommy had ever heard. And as he followed her sleepily to bed, he realized television was a wonderful thing . . . if you didn't overdo it!

Getting a Daisy B-B Gun is like getting a good grade.

You have to work for it.

We want every boy to enjoy the thrill of owning a Daisy. But we want him to be ready.

You see, a Daisy is a gun. It's not a toy.

You have to be ready to learn marksmanship and proper gun handling. It's a big responsibility.

What kind of boy is ready for his Daisy?

You can tell by the way he handles other things. Like schoolwork, and jobs around the house. He knows how to take serious things seriously.

He knows a gun is no laughing matter. And when he gets his Daisy, he grows up a little more.

Because nothing teaches marksmanship and proper gun handling like a Daisy B-B Gun.

If you think you're that kind of boy, talk it over with your parents. Tell them you understand the responsibility of gun ownership, and are ready to practice it.

When you're ready to learn the lessons a Daisy can teach, we'll have a Daisy ready for you.

Send for "The Air Rifle Marksman." Mail your name, address, and 25c to Daisy, P.O. Box 220, Rogers, Arkansas. 72756.

The B-B Gun every boy dreams about.
